Local group wants district to offer expanded elementary schools

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

A group of mothers of Southport Elementary School kids has patiently lobbied the West Sacramento school board to consider adding 7th and 8th grades to some local elementary school campuses, giving families a choice on whether to send their youngsters to middle school or a kindergarten-through-eighth campus.

"We've been trying to let them know there's a need for options for K-8 schools," said Mary Dodson, one of those parents. "We've toured Golden State Middle School, and we think it's a great school – it's got AVID, GATE and other great programs. Unfortunately, it's overcrowded at 1,100 students, and every classroom is being used. We feel middle school is not the first option for many children."

Could it be that some parents from West Sacramento's perceived "affluent" area of Southport are simply reluctant to send their kids to a diverse middle school on the north end of town?

"I grew up here in West Sac," replied Dodson. "I wouldn't live here if I didn't enjoy the diversity. None of us have a concern about going over there to the north side – our kids play sports with them and we associate with people over there on a daily basis. The issue is just middle school versus 'K-8.'"

Dodson said some kids shouldn't go from a small elementary school to a large middle school at that delicate point in their lives.

"We've done the research, we've pulled a lot of data from the internet," she said. "K-8 provides a smaller learning environment so the average kid doesn't get ignored in the shuffle of a bigger middle school. Test scores are always higher in K-8, and staff members know the kids and the parents are more involved. Adolescent is the hardest time for them in life. To go from a small learning environment to 1,100 students is troubling for them."

But Dodson emphasized was that she wanted the district to look, district-wide, at what each current K-6 school could handle and whether local parents wanted their school to offer the upper grades. She wanted families simply to have a choice between K-8, somewhere in town, or middle school.

Fellow parents' group member Stephanie Pridmore said she felt much the same.

"The only factor is achievement," said Pridmore. "I would take my son 30 miles for a better school. My goal is have the district take a look at every school in the district and look at whether it can become a K-8."

Based on what comes out of that look, and of the new Washington Unified School District facilities master plan, a way should be found to give every family the option to use a K-8 school. Not every child belongs in the same environment, Pridmore added.

"My youngest son is a high performer and he would do well at a middle school. My older son is struggling somewhat, and I think he would have done so much better at a K-8. My property tax base is around $500,000 – I have a high tax base as do all the people out here – and we pay Mello-Roos taxes, and most of the people vote, and we deserve a choice."

Superintendent Patrick Campbell was out of the office this week. But Denny Jones, the district's facilities' chief, said WUSD does not currently have a policy regarding whether to pursue creation of K-8 schools. In conjunction with the Rivers subdivision (formerly Lighthouse) along the northern riverfront, though, a K-8 "fundamentals academy" school is now being created.

"My understanding is we're looking at a lottery system to fill half the slots at the school district-wide, and the other half will be available locally," said Jones.

He added that serving students in K-8 campuses might be a bit more expensive than serving them at a middle school.

"There would probably be some additional costs," said Jones. "Programs in the seventh and eighth grades (at a K-8) would need to add science labs, for example, as opposed to regular classrooms. The (K-8 academy) we're putting in at the Rivers pretty much mirrors Bridgeway Island Elementary, with the exception of a science lab."

The school board does not have an official stand on the K-8 issue.

Katie Villegas, a member of the committee urging study of K-8 schools, asked that those interested in taking a survey on the issue visit https://websurveyor.net/wsb.dll/13408/wusd.htm.

Winning spirit

West Sacramento's "Junior Pee Wee Cheerleaders" competed last weekend in the All American Youth Football and Cheer state championships competition, and came home victorious. They went against nine other squads from Northern California, including a couple of prior state champions. The West Sacramento team's routine was flawless, and proved a crowd favorite.

Coaches Debbie Gonzales, Vanessa Romero and Heidi Hinrichson seemed to be more surprised by the win than anyone else. The girls will now compete in a state championship on Dec. 10 and try to quality for the national championship to be held at Las Vegas.

Three arrested in officer's death

Yolo County officials announced that local law enforcement authorities teamed with fellow agencies concluded a manhunt for those involved in last week's killing of a California Highway Patrol officer.

Officer Andrew Stevens, whose primary duty was enforcing laws involving commercial traffic, was shot after pulling over a car on Yolo County Road 96 on Thursday. After the suspect vehicle sped off, a nearby farmer used the officer's radio to call in "mayday," and other witnesses helped describe the suspect and his vehicle.

On Friday morning, the suspects' vehicle was spotted by an officer at a motel in Roseville, and officers closed in.

In custody are Brendt Anthony Volarvich, 20, of Roseville; Gregory Fred Zielesch, 47, of Woodland, and Lindsay Montgomery, 20, of Woodland. Volarvich and Zielesch have been booked for murder of a peace officer, reports Yolo District Attorney Dave Henderson, and Zielesch was also charged with conspiracy.

Montgomery was booked for being an accessory to murder.

Streetcars reexamined

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

You may soon be able to "hop a trolley" to Sacramento – something West Sacramentans haven't been able to do since 1941.

A new city study is looking at bringing streetcars back to West Sac, beginning with a 1.5 mile "spine" coming from Sacramento light rail stations at 7th and 8th streets, crossing the Tower Bridge and proceeding west along West Capitol Avenue.

City officials have eyed the possibility of light rail along West Capitol Avenue for many years, but streetcars may be a cheaper way to bring in more mass transit, says a report written by Maureen Daly Pascoe of the West Sacramento Redevelopment Agency.

Transportation leaders believe "a streetcar line might be a good starting point for bringing rail transit to West Sacramento," stated Pascoe. "(They) are cost-effective because they use fewer vehicles, have shorter routes, and generally use less expensive track construction methods (than light rail), with per-mile costs typically under $20 million."

Streetcar service is being examined on both sides of the river to boost tourism and economic growth.

"A revived streetcar movement is catching on across the country, with great examples in Portland, Tampa, Memphis, Little Rock and 24 other cities," said Pascoe.

A new streetcar system could be designed to use either historic, replica or modern cars, she added, and could work on existing light rail lines.

The West Capitol corridor is viewed by city officials as the most appropriate place to begin mass-transit service, which depends on dense clusters of homes or jobs to be cost-effective. While the city doesn't have adequate dense clusters of housing to support light rail, it does have a plethora of jobs, particularly around the Harbor Boulevard/freeway business district. Many of these jobs are held by people who currently commute from Sacramento by car. These are potential users of a better mass-transit system.

This city's population is actually higher during the day than during the night, because of its high ratio of jobs to citizens.

West Sacramento has earmarked $50,000 for rail studies, and other funds for study are being sought. Construction of a future streetcar system could be funded by a benefit tax district, state and federal funding and other sources. Operating costs, said Pascoe, might be paid through such sources as a sales tax, property-based improvement district, hotel taxes, fares and sponsorships.

Stung

West Sacramento police announced last week that an anti-prostitution sweep on November 10 yielded the arrests of five women.

An undercover officer contacted women along West Capitol Avenue – a "known prostitution stroll" – who appeared to be plying that trade. After making deals with them for an act of prostitution, the officer arrested them. The sting operation took place between 10 a.m. and 6 p.m.

Two of the five women also had outstanding arrest warrants.

Their ages ranged from 28 to 43. Three reported living in West Sacramento, and one each had an address in Los Angeles and Sacramento.

History

The West Sacramento Historical Society reports a new exhibit at the second floor of West Sacramento's civic center. The exhibit highlights the Lincoln Highway – a stretch of pavement leading from New York's Times Square to the Palace of Legion of Honor in San Francisco. The highway included the Tower Bridge and West Sacramento's current West Capitol Avenue, along with the Yolo Causeway.

The highway was finished in 1913 and funded largely by donations from auto-industry businesses. It was built for $10 million and dedicated to Abraham Lincoln.

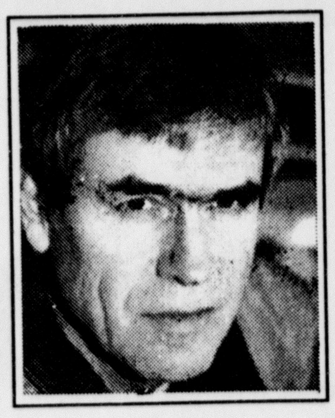
The exhibits includes photos and memorabilia of the highway and Yolo Causeway.

Poster for original Yolo Causeway, spanning west from West Sacramento towards the city of Davis

The society also announces that a closing reception will be held for its San Pedro/Portuguese exhibit at the local museum, 324 Third Street in West Sacramento. The reception is planned for Sat., Dec. 3. Loaves of Portuguese sweet bread will be for sale for $6 by reservation, by calling Sharon Freitas, 421-5768.

New museum hours are noon to 4:00 p.m. on Thursday through Sunday weekly.

Need to know how to cook a holiday turkey?



My Back Pages

By Daryl Fisher

With Thanksgiving just a day away, I have an urge to re-run a delightful little collection of "How to cook a Turkey" suggestions (with an introductory poem no less) penned a few years ago by my wife's secretary's son's kindergarten class.

Happy Thanksgiving!

"The Thanksgiving holiday is near
You'll be cooking for those you hold dear
Go ahead and make out your shopping list
But please use these recipes at your own risk"

(Austin): Go to the forest and hunt for a turkey. Bring it home and cook it. Put it in a pan with pepper and salt. Cook it on top of the stove for eight minutes. Put some sauce on it.

(Chase): Go to America and get a turkey. Put sugar on it. Cook in an oven on 100 degrees for 3 days. Put some more sugar on it. Open up the turkey and serve it to your family.

(Cory): Go to the chicken store. Check out a turkey and buy it. Start driving home. Open the door to your house. Cook it on the stove for 30 minutes. Put spices on the turkey. Cut it up and give it to your family.

(Emily): Go to the farm and ask the farmer for a turkey. Take it home. Put it in the oven, a really hot oven. Cook for ten days. Put it on a pretty plate. Eat it.

(Emma): Go outside and get a turkey. Cook it in a pot with gravy. Put it inside the oven on 10 degrees for five seconds. Cut it up and eat it. Maybe at the end put some salt and pepper on it.

(Isabel): Go to the Thanksgiving store and get a turkey. Just a regular turkey. Cook it in soup in the oven. Put the oven on ten degrees and cook the turkey for five minutes. Serve it to your family on a nice dish.

(Jackson): Buy a turkey at the store. Put it in the microwave for 1 hour at 1000 degrees. Put a cherry on top. Cut it up and then eat it.

(Mary): I would go to my brother's room and get a turkey. My dad has to cook the turkey by cutting it. Put it in the microwave. Cook for a long time. Put mustard on it. Then you eat it and now you are thirsty. Don't eat too fast, eat it slowly.

(Max): Go to Chili's restaurant to get a turkey. It costs 20 dollars. Buy the turkey and cook it. Put it in the oven on 20 degrees for an hour. Cut it up and eat it.

(McKenzie): Go to the farm and ask the farmer for a girl turkey. Bring it home and cook it in the oven. Cook for six years on six degrees. Put pumpkin frosting on it. Put a drop of turkey on the plate. I would drink apple cider with it.

(Megan): Go to Safeway and buy a turkey with fifty dollars. Cook it in the oven on five degrees for four hours. If you wanted to make it sweet, it would be better with sugar. But that's only if you had a lot of people. Put little fork things in it to make sure it's hot enough. Then you cut it up with a really big knife and serve it up.

(Meghan): Go to a food store and they will give you a turkey because you need it. Cook it inside the over on six degrees for ten days. Put pepper on it. Put it on a plate. Give it to someone for Thanksgiving.

(Rachel): Buy a turkey at the grocery store. Then bake it on a stove. Cook for eight minutes. Put seasoning on it, that's all. Put it on a plate and then let it cool off. Eat it when cool.

(Scott): Go to Albertson's to buy a turkey, a chicken turkey. Cook it with a cooking book or recipe. Put it in a pan so the turkey doesn't catch fire. Put it on top of the stove. Cook for thirty minutes. Cut it in some pieces. Serve it with a plate to your family.

(Sydney): Go to the farm and ask, "Please can I have a turkey?" Cook it in the oven on a little bit hot. Cook for fifteen minutes. Put decorations on your turkey. Then eat it.

(Travis): Go to Bel Air and buy a ham turkey. Bring it home and cook it. Put it in a really hot oven for 25 minutes. Get it out of the oven when it's done. Then eat it. When you are done, wipe your mouth and ask, "May I please be excused?"

A Winter love letter:

I will seek and find you...
I shall take you to bed and have my way with you...
I will make you ache, shake and sweat until you moan and groan...
I will make you beg for mercy, beg for me to stop...
I will exhaust you to the point that you will be relieved when I'm finished with you.
And when I am finished, you will be weak for days.
All my love,
THE FLU

David Trussell

My wife and I enjoy watching E.R. on Thursday nights, but we don't speak "doctor", so when you see them working on patients I can't understand what they are talking about, but enjoy the show anyway. But in real life, when you are on the operating table, what they are saying really doesn't matter, because all you want is for them to fix you and ask questions later.

Every profession has their own dialogue, and unless you are in that profession there is a slim chance that you would really know what they are talking about. The language we all use in our jobs helps us communicate to those around us for job efficiency and effectiveness. A true test of your skills is when you can translate and interpret to those around you and those not associated in your industry an understanding of what you are talking about.

Mortgages and Real Estate are no exception! When we talk amongst ourselves we understand completely what we are talking about. The true test, however, is when our customers understand! That ability comes from three factors, training, education, and expereince. As one's complete understanding of their product enhances, the better they can translate it. My goal is to take my 16 years of experience and educate you so you understand completely! So when we buy or sell your home, and get your mortgages not only will you know the procedure, but you will also understand the terminology.

If you don't feel like you understand something well enough or the explanation that was given didn't sound right, feel free to give me a call and I will assist you with the correct answer.

Sincerely,
David Trussell

RAIDER ROUNDUP: River City High sports summary

By Troy Turner

Football follow-up

Last week, I mentioned that the Foothill Mustangs' j.v. team decided to forfeit their game against River City, because their best player wanted to play with the varsity squad for the playoffs. Well, Foothill's varsity was soundly beaten in the playoffs by Manteca, 42-13. What is the lesson here? Treat people the way you want to be treated.

Boys Basketball

The 2005-06 basketball season officially starts this week as the Raiders face West Campus this week. Varsity coach Jon West is beginning his 14th season as head coach, and is anxious to return to the playoffs. River City last made the playoffs two years ago. The school would like to send a special "thank you" to SAFE Credit Union for providing warm-up uniforms for the varsity team.

The junior varsity coach is Joe Bowers. Coach Bowers is a local resident whose son, Joe Bowers, Jr., graduated from River City. Coach Bowers begins his third season as head coach.

The freshman coach is Phil Jackson. No, not THAT Phil Jackson, who coaches the L.A. Lakers. This is Coach Jackson's first year as head coach.

Girls Basketball

I guess you can say that both the girls varsity and junior varsity teams are fit for a king.

The King brothers, that is. Jamie and Shawn King are coaching the girls basketball program this year. Jaime will be guiding the varsity team and Shawn will be in charge of the JV girls.

The King brothers were both raised in West Sacramento and are passionate about basketball.

Two years ago, the girls varsity team was ranked last in division three. Under the guidance of Jaime last year, the team had a record of 14-13 – just two wins away from making the playoffs.

As Jaime said, "teams no longer look at us and think they will get an easy win."

Brother Shawn has done well, too, increasing his wins each season.

This week, the lady Raiders face San Juan and Encina High School.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• "Ask singers to sing, and you can't get them to start; don't ask them to sing, and you can't get them to stop." That sounds like a pretty modern observation, don't you think? You might be surprised to learn, then, that it's Horace — a Roman poet of the first century B.C. — to whom that bon mot is attributed.

• Perhaps unsurprisingly, the modern word "nepotism" comes from the ancient Latin word for "nephew."

• Actor Bill Murray was at one time a pre-med student.

• It's well-known that disputes over wedding ceremonies and celebrations can become emotional and heated. Some people take it to extremes, though; consider Florica Ifrimie. The Romanian woman and her fiance couldn't agree on a menu for the wedding feast. Florica evidently couldn't endure not getting her way, so she committed suicide.

Congratulations to Burney Lamar on your Successful 2005 season.

'Diversity' of artwork

By Betty Fairbairn Sokolich

The annual exhibit of the West Sacramento Art Guild, currently on display at the Arthur Turner Library, again shows the exciting diversity of expression, interests, and techniques of the artist members of the organization. Using needlework, oil, watercolor, and computer programs, the artists give us much to enjoy.

The time consuming stitchery or needlework of Linda Bowron is amazing in the details and complicated designs. Using fine thread and a multitude of colors she is able to create a myriad of colors in "Kincaid Valley of Flower". The profusion of blossoms creates a lush, colorful garden scene.

The old fashioned "Amish Village" scene depicts a horse and buggy era in a primitive composition reminiscent of Grandma Moses' work.

A nostalgic New England scene is found in "Sleigh Bells Ringing" as two horses stand patiently as the farmer and his helpers tap the maple trees for their syrup and transfer the buckets to the cart.

"Snow-scape" by Stella Caluya could be a good reminder that somewhere snow is the forerunner of the Christmas season.

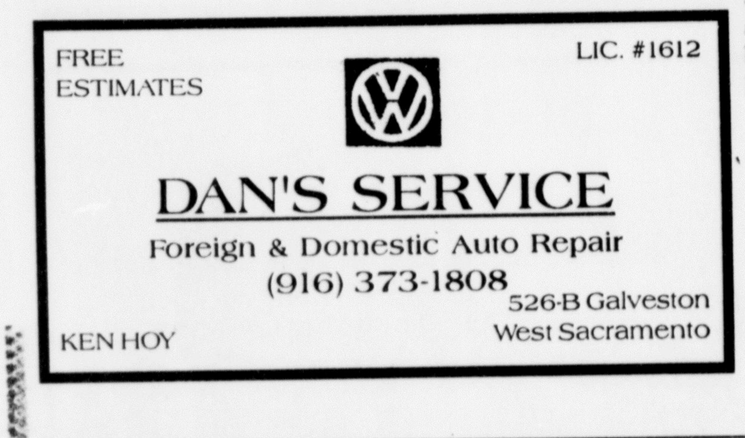
Roger Rehm is fascinated by the signs of our times so in simplified compositions he brings the logs to our attention is "Sign by the Road" and the fun painting "I Love Disco", both oil paintings.

"Deep Forest" is Dawn St. Nicolas inspiration showing the two deer enjoying the grandeur of the peaceful forest. "Montana" takes you out into the open spaces to enjoy the beautiful background of the mountains and the meadow.

"Miller Time" is created with the aid of a computer program, the newest art medium in the exhibit, by Wes Sherlock. He was able to compose the painting by overlapping, collage, and drawing with the computer. The colors are bright, sometimes opaque and sometimes transparent.

"Jason's Favorite Place" and "Nature Finds a Way" represent Betty Fairbairn Sokolich' love of the out of doors.

A reception for the artists will be held on Sunday, December 4, 2005 from 2-4 p.m. and the public is cordially invited to attend and enjoy viewing the art exhibit which is sponsored by the West Sacramento Friends of the Library.



NOTICE OF INTENT TO ADOPT A NEGATIVE DECLARATION

A Negative Declaration has been prepared for the Tempo Square Tentative Subdivision Map No. 4823 (TSM 05-12), Planned Development Permit, and Conditional Use Permit at 2670-2690 Higgins Road (APN 45-280-15, -16, -17). OPINION

News-Ledger Editorial

Paved with good intentions

Here's the thing: even if you agree with such changes as removing the principal at River City High and the hiring or the forced resignation of the superintendent of the school district, you will probably admit that things haven't turned out all that well. There is a right way, and innumerable wrong ways, to do these things, and when you do it the wrong way, you can end up with a mess even larger than the one you thought you were cleaning up.

River City High's former principal is gone, but before being removed, he was poorly managed by his bosses (lacking a recent employee evaluation) and then transferred from RCHS in a manner which was probably not legal. Now, the school is stuck in limbo with an interim principal and a legal problem with the former one. The school is not better off – and that's the test, isn't it?

On a related note: the district has now released the "Rice Report," a consultant's evaluation of River City High School which seems intended to help retroactively justify the principal's transfer. The report was written by a consultant – a business associate of WUSD attorney Jackson Parham, who is of course heavily involved in the principal's transfer – and it was authorized in an illegal behind-closed-doors discussion by the school board.

As for the forced resignation this month of the district's superintendent? Much of the same. This superintendent, Patrick Campbell, was hired wrong – he got the job through cronyism. Then he was given a contract extension and, a few months later, a push out the door when things started to sour. Once again, the employee evaluation process failed. Mr. Campbell could hardly have been good enough to earn a three-year contract in June and then a dismissal in November. His golden handshake (the contract buyout) is going to cost a lot of your money.

The keys to good management are challenging yet simple. Hire skilled people. Bring out the best in them, communicating what you like about their performance and where you'd like to see improvement. Monitor their performance, and give regular feedback. Set up expectations for duties, procedure and process. Give loyalty, as well as expect it. Be "professional." Discipline when necessary.

Here's a chance to improve on those management qualities at WUSD. The right choice for a new superintendent could help clean up the way the school board operates and improve how district staff performs its job.

There's a pothole in the road, though. The temptation is for the school board and other influential parties such as the board's attorney and top staffers to quickly offer up their own solution to the current management vacuum. The temptation is for them to hire a new superintendent (or a new search firm to find a superintendent) based on personal ties or their own comfort level with such a person. This way lies trouble. Every few years, it seems, board members sense their administration is "broken," and they hatch a plan to put a crony in charge who, they're certain, will fix things. These relationships are based on compromises and shortcuts, and they always self-destruct.

There is a bumper sticker: "the definition of insanity is doing the same thing over and over again, while expecting a different result."

Let's try something different this time at WUSD. Let's try following a different process – a better process – to get a better result.

Let's put a strong, management-oriented person is an interim superintendent – someone like the last superintendent, Stu Greenfeld, who resigned for health reasons. Let's get things settled down. No more cabals, no more cutting corners with the public, no more cronyism.

Perhaps the interim superintendent, instead of someone with a more personal agenda, can steer the process of looking for a long-term chief. Perhaps he or she can also catch up on employee evaluations and on the direction of top staff members.

What a wonderful opportunity for real change.

Letters to the Editor

Start the search

Well, no one is going to accuse Daryl Fisher of not saying exactly what is on his mind ('My Back Pages,' News-Ledger Nov. 16). Love it or hate it, there were some valid points in his column last week.

It is imperative that the Board of Education not squander the opportunity to start with a clean slate and immediately begin an exhaustive search for a strong leader who not only has the vision to move our school district forward as future educational opportunities become available, but will also work tirelessly to right the existing problems which currently plague many of our schools.

Any future hire should not be warmed-up leftovers from another area of the current administration. This district can no longer afford to dabble in cronyism. The district's contract for legal counsel has not gone out for RFP since dinosaurs roamed the earth. Good business sense dictates that contracts should be periodically opened up for competitive bidding.

While the current superintendent has done much to hasten his own departure, the destructive actions of those immediately under him helped facilitate the inevitable. Much has been done by top administrators in the last year to erode the overall health of the district office. This district needs a decisive leader with a strong moral compass who will not fall prey to manipulation, special interests and personal agendas, and we need him or her on board as soon as possible.

Now that the broom is out -- keep sweeping! The time is perfect to employ the trickle down theory. Opportunity is being served up on a silver plate, and it needs to be handled right. The children of this community are depending on it.

Crime suggestions

Too often the missing link between the unemployed and a job is not being able to get to and from the job in a reasonable time. Seems like county agencies such as Yolo's Department of Employment and Social Services, if provided with federal or state grant funding for monthly bus passes or coupon books for subsidized taxi service, could more effectively match the jobless with more jobs, thus not only saving taxpayer money overall, but also resulting in safer communities, since many crimes are committed out of desperation.

On a related note, we continue to view on our PBS stations programs reminding us that those released from our state prisons are still given only $200. But it boggles the mind how decision-makers believe this is enough for rent and other living expenses until the first job's paycheck of the released arrives. Let's hope our new State Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation will not only better train those in their custody to have a more law-abiding attitude and be more job-ready upon release, but also provide more realistic assistance, e.g., welfare-to-work type. Is that rate of recidivism still over 90%? If that's too hard to understand, some SDCR staff should leave home with only what those released from prison get -- just $200 -- and see how long they could financially and legally survive without other assistance. Yes, a federal grant would seem in order.

"Chicken Little"

Running time: 80 minutes
MPAA rating: G

"Chicken Little" is Disney's first foray into the computer-generated animation market. For years the House of Mouse has been riding the coattails of Pixar, with such hits as "Toy Story," "Finding Nemo" and "The Incredibles." But now, after burning its bridges with Pixar, Disney is left on its own to compete against an independent Pixar, as well as Dreamworks' powerhouse animation studio.

I mention Dreamworks because "Chicken Little" tries way too hard to be a carbon copy of "Shrek."

The film is jam-packed with pop culture references geared toward making parents feel hip and a wall-to-wall soundtrack of 25-year-old pop songs, which seems to be a prerequisite for comedies these days. Honestly, if I hear "I Will Survive" one more time in a movie, I'm gonna smack someone with a lava lamp.

"Chicken Little" features the voice of Zach Braff as the title character, who has an acorn fall on his head one day and is convinced the sky is falling. This is the only part of the movie that has any connection to the original fairy tale. After that bit, director Mark Dindal ("The Emperor's New Groove") takes a hard left and heads for the intersection of Stupid Avenue and Contrived Sentimentality Lane.

By trying to "update" the story, Chicken Little is now a child raised by a single parent (voiced by Garry Marshall), which means we have to endure far too many you'd-better-cry scenes about "family" and other baloney.

And those chunks of sky? They're camouflaged pieces of an alien spacecraft bent on invading Earth.

(There will a short pause while we all groan together.)

If this second-rate pap is what we can expect from Disney's computer animation division, I'm betting they'll need to fire whomever's in charge and bring in someone with the vision and talent of Jeff Katzenberg (who greenlighted "The Lion King" when he was at Disney in the '80s) or Pixar's John Lasseter.

Or else, like "Chicken Little," Disney will continue to lay eggs.

THE CHOPPING BLOCK
by Philomena Corradeno

HUMBLE POTATO IS GOLD MINE OF NUTRIENTS

An interesting item in Specialty Food magazine reports that the British Potato Council, representing 4,000 growers and processors in the U.K., is campaigning to have the term "couch potato" removed from the Oxford English Dictionary, that awesome 20-volume tome. The council believes it gives the wholesome potato a bad rap and wants "couch potato" replaced by "couch slouch."

Random House Webster's College Dictionary defines it as "a person whose leisure time is spent watching TV." That paints a picture of an idler, a do-nothing. The potato is anything but.

It's working all the time, directing its nutrients to do their jobs in the body. Loaded with vitamins and minerals, the potato is a gold mine. A 5.3-ounce potato has only 100 calories, is free of fat, cholesterol and sodium, is high in vitamin C and, if eaten with the skin, provides potassium and fiber. It's a good source of carbohydrates, which nourish the brain and muscles.

We have some recipes here you'll want in your menu plans. Roast Potatoes are probably the most simple to prepare, and they take well to any seasoning embellishments. Also following is a Chicken-Potato Soup with a Southwestern kick.

BASIC ROASTED POTATOES

- 3 medium (5- to 6-ounce) potatoes, scrubbed
- 1 tablespoon olive oil
- Salt and pepper

Heat oven to 425 F. Leave skin on and cut potatoes into chunks, quarters, fries or wedges; place in large bowl. Drizzle with oil; toss to coat. Arrange potato pieces in single layer on nonstick baking sheet. Roast 15 to 35 minutes, or until golden brown and tender, turning once about halfway through roasting (cooking time will vary depending on size of pieces). Season to taste with salt and pepper. Makes 4 servings.

PARMESAN POTATO WEDGES

- 3 medium (5- to 6-ounce) yellow potatoes, scrubbed
- 1 tablespoon plus 1 teaspoon olive oil, divided
- 1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese
- 1 medium red bell pepper
- 1 medium green bell pepper
- Salt and pepper

Heat oven to 425 F. Leave skin on and cut potatoes into 1-inch wedges; place in large bowl. Drizzle with 1 tablespoon oil; toss to coat. Sprinkle with cheese; toss, then arrange potato wedges in single layer on nonstick baking sheet. Roast 15 minutes. Meanwhile, seed and cut bell peppers into 1-inch strips; toss in bowl with 1 teaspoon oil. Turn potato wedges and add pepper strips to baking sheet in single layer. Roast 10 to 15 minutes, or until potatoes and peppers are tender. Season with salt and pepper. Makes 4 servings.

*SOUTHWESTERN CHICKEN-POTATO SOUP

- 2 (14 1/2-ounce) cans chicken broth
- 1 (16- to 20-ounce) package refrigerated pre-cut cubed potatoes
- 1 teaspoon ground cumin
- 1/2 teaspoon chili powder
- 1 (6-ounce) package fully cooked grilled chicken strips
- 1 (11-ounce) can whole kernel corn, drained
- 1 cup bell pepper strips
- 1 (4-ounce) can diced green chiles, undrained

In large saucepan, bring broth, potatoes, cumin and chili powder to boil over high heat. Reduce heat to medium-low; simmer 5 to 10 minutes or until potatoes are tender. Cut chicken strips in half. Into potato mixture stir chicken, corn, bell peppers and green chiles; heat through. Makes 2 servings.

Q. What's happening with the spin-off of "Everybody Loves Raymond"? Will we see any of the original show's stars on it? — Virginia H.

A. According to a recent release, it's on track. And, yes, there will be family visits. But as one insider told me, the visits will be minimal to build interest in the new show's characters.

Q. A group of us in our office have become Anderson Cooper fans. We know (the CNN newsman) is a member of the Vanderbilt family through his mother, Gloria Vanderbilt. But we know almost nothing about his father. Please help. — C.S.

A. Wyatt Emory Cooper was an author, actor and screenwriter ("Sanctuary," "The Chapman Report," etc.). He married Gloria Vanderbilt in 1964. They had two sons, Carter, who died in 1988, and Anderson. Vanderbilt said her marriage to Cooper was the happiest experience of her life, and she never remarried after his death. She also called him the best father she had ever seen, and talked about his loving relationship not only with their two sons, but also with the two she had from her second marriage.

Q. I recently heard on a TV show that when Elizabeth Taylor was married to her second husband, Michael Wilding, they had to borrow money to buy a home. That doesn't sound right. I tried to call the channel where that comment was made but never got through. — Marilyn R.

A. That comment appeared on a documentary made about Elizabeth Taylor, and the explanation was that after she and Wilding began raising a family, they wanted a larger home. But his career was stalled, and despite her worldwide stardom, at that time she wasn't pulling in the big money. That would start to come after the release of "Giant." So they did what any couple might do: They took out a loan.

Q. Is it true that Renee Zellweger's former husband says they might remarry? I thought I heard that on a TV entertainment news program, but no one else I mentioned it to heard it. — Katherine F.

A. Actually, what country star Kenny Chesney said was that although the two were married for a short time (four months), they cared about each other and still do. And he considers her a wonderful person who helped him experience true love.

Q. Our families are admirers of Condoleezza Rice, the U.S. secretary of state. Could you please tell us where she got her education? Some of us believe it was in Africa. — Helen P.

A. Condoleezza Rice has been called the most academic member of the Bush cabinet. She says she was taught as a child that her greatest advantage against discrimination was an education. She enrolled in the University of Colorado at 15 and graduated with a degree in political science. She went on to obtain her master's and her doctorate. Although she took courses abroad, her education was largely in the United States. She also studied and performed as a classical pianist.

How the Republicans Stole Christmas
by Bill Press
(Doubleday, $23.95)
Reviewed by Larry Cox

Bill Press, political commentator and syndicated radio talk-show host, is angry — convinced that our government has been hijacked by right-wing religious thugs. And he builds a convincing case that our country is in trouble because of it in his new book, "How the Republicans Stole Christmas: The Republican Party's Declared Monopoly on Religion and What Democrats Can Do to Take It Back."

Press's credentials are impressive: He was an altar boy, went to Catholic high school and spent 10 years in the seminary studying for the priesthood. After a high-profile career in government, he worked for three decades as a broadcaster and served as chairman of the California Democratic Party from 1993 to 1996.

Press says that during the last two presidential elections, extremists have promoted the myth that God personally selected George W. Bush for the most powerful office in the world. Following his election, W. set about to make his fanatical, crony-centric agenda of gays, guns and abortion the focus of the entire country.

Press thinks the country can change direction, but it won't be an easy task. As Americans, we must find common ground so we can calmly discuss and tackle the perplexing issues that confront our nation, including poverty, race, separation of church and state, abortion, stem-cell research and gay rights.

Press states that we must quell the carefully crafted campaign by the Republican party that has staked out a monopoly on moral values, narrowed the definition of our basic values, and created a dangerous climate of excessively simplistic black-and-white thinking. As a nation, we must get beyond our "if you're not with us, you're against us" mentality," he says.

POPULAR WEST SACRAMENTO GIRL WED IN LOCAL CHURCH

At the Catholic Church in Washington last Monday morning following a nuptial Mass by Rev. Father Marcucci, Miss Noreen Taylor and Philip Ettel were married in the presence of a few close friends and relatives from Sacramento and West Sacramento.

The bride has been popular in West Sacramento during the past few years where she has been attending school at the Sister's convent and graduated from there two years ago.

She is just past her eighteenth year and lately graduated as a trained nurse from the Sister's Hospital.

Ettel is a contractor and builder of Sacramento, having inherited from his father a remunerative business of several years' standing.

Immediately following a reception held at the home of the parents of the bride the young couple went to San Francisco and other Bay resorts for their honeymoon.

Attending the bride and groom at the wedding as bridesmaid was Miss Maureen Taylor, her sister, and as best man, Michael McElligott of Sacramento.

Ettel had joined the Catholic Church before the wedding and on the eve of the wedding day was baptized by Rev. Father Marcucci.

WORK ON WEST SACRAMENTO ROAD STARTED MONDAY

As promised by the Independent in last week's issue of the paper, work was started by the contractors on the roadway from the church in West Sacramento to Riverview station on the Oakland-Antioch Railway and on the river levee near Glide.

Work will also be started on the road on Jefferson Boulevard in West Sacramento in a short while.

The contractors estimate they will be able to finish both stretches of road before the first of September, which will be welcome news to the farmers of the district and those farther south.

TOM ROBINSON MARRIED IN OAKLAND ON MAY 24

Pale and rather haggard during the past two weeks, friends of Tom Robinson have been asking questions, and succeeded at last in finding the cause.

Ruddy of complexion and boistrous to a degree, Robinson cooled down within the past two weeks in a peculiar way. It was this change that prompted questions. The result was that Tom acknowledged the step and told his friends that he had been married to Miss Anna MacAllister on May 24th in the Presbyterian Church in Oakland.

Tom is a joker and everybody knows it. On his friends he has preyed for a long time, but now he is ready to take the joke too.

Mrs. Robinson is a popular young lady of the Capital City, employed at the State Capitol in the Controller's office.

Tom has been here during the past three years. Everybody knows him as Tom, and as a matter of fact few knew what his last name was. He is employed at the Beale store and is noted for his courtesy and genial disposition.

The young couple had only a few near relatives to witness the ceremony. They will make their home with the parents of the bride temporarily at 1215 L Street.

RIVERBANK HOME IS DESTROYED BY FIRE

Last Saturday night at 10:30 p. m. the home of W. Howard in Riverbank was discovered on fire by Mrs. Howard, who smelled smoke on the premises.

She, with her three children, had retired for the night and had been asleep but a short time when awakened by the smoke.

Gathering together the three little ones, she got outside the dwelling as quickly as possible, saving only her own clothing and that of the children which had been worn that day.

Neighbors were summoned immediately, and the volunteer fire-fighting force was called out, but owing to the inflammable nature of the structure it was practically consumed before the fire fighters arrived.

The home was a complete loss, with only a small insurance.

When the fire occurred, the father, W. Howard, was at work in the fruit districts around Winters and Vacaville.

Neighbors have been housing the Howard family since the disaster. The cause of the fire is unknown.

WEST SAC. PROPERTY OWNERS MEET NEXT TUESDAY EVENING

Another social gathering of the property owners of West Sacramento will be held next Teusday evening at the Administration Building to perfect the organization known as "District 900 Improvement Club."

Election of reclamation trustees of the district will take place on Wednesday, June 20, and it is mostly for this purpose that the meeting will be held Tuesday evening.

Committees of several kinds have already been named to look after the affairs of the district, and reports will be turned in by these Tuesday evening. It is understood that several of the committees have been active in perfecting plans and preparations in the way of improvement, and no doubt every property owner will be anxious to hear of these plans.

Two previous meetings were practically unannounced, but nevertheless large gatherings took place that were very satisfactory to the representative of the bond holders.

A promise has been made that, besides Mr. Peltier and Mr. Jones, some more of the bond holders will be present next Tuesday evening to announce other purposes that are in view by the reorganization committee.

There should be a full house at the headquarters next Tuesday evening, especially because it falls on the eve of the election of reclamation trustees, which is Wednesday, June 20.

DRUG FIENDS STILL CROSS RIVER GIVING US BAD REPUTE

An old offender, giving his name as John Ryan, was sent to the county jail last Tuesday by Judge Barry for ninety days because he was found possessing morphine.

Ryan was arrested in the brush south of the M Street bridge by Roy Jones, agent of the State pharmacy board, and Constable Henry Buckingham. He was recognized as an old offender, having spent some time in the State penitentiary.

He had only just crossed the M Street bridge when he was taken by the police officers.

Lee Lee, the incorrigible Chinese, was held over to appear before the superior court last Saturday by Judge Harrison of Woodland, acting in place of Judge Barry in the local court.

Lee has served time before for peddling dope, and the chances are he will be given a heavy sentence when he appears before Judge Harrison in the near future.

CASE NUMBER PB05-238

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of Benjamin RRuiz:

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by Gary Wayne Ruiz in the Superior Court of California, County of Yolo.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that Gary Wayne Ruiz be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests the decedent's will and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on Dec. 12, 2005, at 8:30 a.m., in Dept. 11, Superior Court of California, County of Yolo, 725 Court St. Room 103, Woodland, CA 95695.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the deceased, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within four months from the date of first issuance of letters as provided in Probate Code section 9100. The time for filing claims will not expire before four months from the hearing date noticed above.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a "Request for Special Notice" (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A "Request for Special Notice" form is available from the court clerk.

Journey Christian Church invites you to a horse-drawn wagon hay ride & Christmas caroling on Sat., Dec. 17, from 6-9 p.m. at Bridgeway Island Elementary School. Wagons will depart every 20 minutes. Free beverages, snacks & treats. For more information, call 375-0800.

Holiday bazaar

The City of West Sacramento is presenting a holiday bazaar on Tuesday, Dec. 13, from noon to 2 p.m. at the civic center galleria, 1110 West Capitol Avenue. There will be arts & crafts for sale, along with food and beverages. For more information, call 373-5819.

Travel

The West Sacramento Senior Center is planning upcoming travel events. Cost to go to Thunder Valley is $17; on Dec. 7 to "Nevada Victorian Christmas" is $30; and on Dec. 15 to Feather Falls is $17. Call 373-5819.

Gas bill help

PG&E announces expanded programs to help low income people deal with high gas heating bills this winter. The "CARE" program can provide a monthly energy discount of about 20 percent, while the "Energy Partners" program provides free energy-efficient appliances and weatherization services. A sliding income scale means that a single person earning under $27,700 per year can qualify, or a family of four with an income under $39,200. For more information, visit www.pge.com.

Congressman visits

Congressman Mike Thompson will visit the Collings West Sacramento Teen Center, 1541 Merkley Avenue, for a tour and to present a federal grant of $100,000 at 10:30 a.m. Dec. 1. He will also be the guest speaker at the Sacramento Metropolitan Chamber of Commerce luncheon at 11:30 a.m. Dec. 1 at West Sacramento's civic center.

Volunteer!

The Elderly Nutrition Program at the West Sacramento Senior Center needs volunteers to help set up, serve and clean up for the daily lunchtime meal. Volunteers are needed for any hours between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. on weekdays, as your schedule allows. Call Patty, 373-5805.

Recycle cooking oil

A new city program offers you a chance to recycle your used cooking oil this holiday season. Instead of risking blocked pipes by pouring it down a drain, save it in a sturdy container and take it to the public works department, 1951 South River Road, weekdays between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. No charge for residents or city employees showing a photo ID. Remember, homeowners and residents can be tapped for cleanup costs if a pipe blockage is traced to their home. For information, call 617-4850.

Active Aging

The City of West Sacramento plans an "Active Aging Bazaar" at the civic center on Dec. 10 from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. There will be artwork for sale, entertainment and snacks. No charge to attend. Vendors may call (916) 373-5819.

Food giveaway

The Food Bank of Yolo County will distribute food to eligible residents at the Clarksburg Firehouse from 10:30-11:30 a.m. on Nov. 28. Please bring a bag. For eligibility information, call (530) 758-6821.

Fight cancer

Volunteers are needed to help organize the planned "Relay for Life" run/walk against cancer, planned for May in West Sacramento and sponsored by the American Cancer Society. Call Trista Jensen, 446-7933 option 3, or visit www.cancer.org.
